SCOTT JACKSON TRIAL

Pearl Bryan's Alleged Slayer
Will Soon Know His Fate.

A JURY HAS BEEN SECURED.

Two Witnesses Examined, the Day That Found the Body and the Coroner—The Latter's Testimony Very Damaging to the Accused—Pearl Bryan Was Killed
Where Her Body Was Found.

CINCINNATI, April 22.—The trial of Scott Jackson for the murder of Pearl Bryan was begun in the Campbell county circuit court in Newport, Ky., yesterday. Much more was accomplished at the first day's session than had been hoped by those who have watched the proceedings up to date. The jury was secured at 2 o'clock after examining less than 50 of the 100 men subpoenaed. They are as follows: Murry Shea, William White, L. Sharstein, F. B. Maiter, John M. Enyler, John Boehmer, William Motts, Millard Carr, George P. Stegner, John T. Backman, Fred Giskemeyer and Jacob Kraut.

The witnesses were taken from the room, and Attorney Lockhart read the indictment amid intense silence. It charges Scott Jackson and Alonzo Walling with killing Pearl Bryan by cutting her head off.

"It is a part of my duty to outline some of the evidence," said Attorney Lockhart, opening the case for the Commonwealth. "Scott Jackson was at Greencastle, Ind., in 1895, where he met Pearl Bryan, youngest daughter of a respectable farmer. Pearl Bryan's father lived in Bourbon county, Ky."

Attorney Crawford objected to this statement.

"Pearl was an unsophisticated country girl; Jackson was an accomplished, much traveled gentleman. The girl became his victim. Then the accused man wrote her to come to Cincinnati. She came Jan. 28. Jackson did not meet her; but a witness who will testify, met her. She met Jackson the following morning, and he was seen frequently with her, not only in Cincinnati, but also in this state, up to Friday night.

"That night, the Commonwealth expects to show, he was with her in a vehicle and that he drove with her to the spot where her headless body was found Saturday morning. He was found later with her satchel and clothing.

"We will show that Alonzo Walling knew Pearl Bryan. We will show that Jackson is the man who murdered that innocent girl," said Lockhart, pointing his finger at Scott Jackson. The prisoner's face turned blood-red.

"We will show that he was a Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde—in Greencastle a model, in Cincinnati associating with lewd women of both colors.

"We will prove that before the murder he exhibited a dissecting knife well suited for the awful use to which it was put."

John Hewling, the boy who discovered the headless body lying on the grass near the Alexandria pike, was the first witness called. He said that there was only about a pint of blood on the ground. This the defense will claim would tend to show that Pearl Bryan was not murdered at this place, but was brought there after the crime was committed.

Coroner Tingley was the next witness. He testified that he reached Fort Thomas at 10 o'clock on the Saturday morning of the discovery. The body was lying obliquely on a terrace. Two feet above the body was a large clot of blood. There was another, as large as a hand, would cover, near the neck of the corpse. Blood was soaked into the clothing. There were spots of blood on the underside of privet bushes several feet from the corpse.

The coroner said that the woman's rubbers were soiled. The effect of this would be to show that Pearl Bryan walked to the scene of her murder, and was alive at Fort Thomas. The middle and third fingers of her left hand were deeply cut. There was a wound as if a stab in the trunk near where the head had been severed. These wounds were all recent.

"Was the head cut off at the place near Fort Thomas?"

"I think it was."

"Was it cut off before or after death?"

"The arteries were severed while the heart was still beating. The blood spots were on leaves two or three feet above the corpse. They were on the under side of the leaves. The blood could not have spurted in this way if the victim was dead when the head was severed. There was a large quantity of blood about the place, the wet ground probably absorbing much.

"The cuts on the hand were made before death and were perfectly fresh," the coroner said. "In cuts made on a dead body the tissues do not well up. The cuts were made by a sharp knife, such as a dissecting knife. The cuts indicated that the hand had been held to grasp a knife blade which had been drawn through it. The condition of the skin was somewhat drawn up around the wound. There was a bloody water seeping from the neck."

"What is the difference between a wound like that made after death and one before?" asked Attorney Lockhart.

"If the head is cut off after death, the skin being dead, it will not afterward show a drawn appearance."

The doctor then went on to detail the result of the postmortem examination. He said that the body was found drained of blood. There was only one clot found. It was about as big as the tip of a man's forefinger, in the heart. If death had taken place before decapitation there would have been more or less coagulation, the doctor said. The doctor was present at both autopsies.

"Doctor, I will ask you," said Attorney Crawford, "if at either autopsy you found any evidence of a criminal operation?"

"Not with instruments," was the answer.

The cross-questioning then began.

"At what angle lay the body?" asked Attorney Crawford.

"The neck was down hill."

"Do you think then," asked Crawford, "that the blood could have spurted up backward from the neck to the leaves of the privet bushes?"

"From the position of one of the elots found on the ground, I judge that the neck might have lain in such a position at the time of decapitation that the blood could have spurted in that way."

Crawford insisted on a direct answer.

"No, I think not," Tingley replied.

"Isn't it true that some time after death the blood remains in a liquid state?" asked the attorney.

"It remains so longer at some times than others. Asphyxiation would cause quicker coagulation than natural death. If the temperature should remain high in a body after death coagulation would be slower than if the temperature were low."

The witness thought the body had lain, when found, eight or 10 hours by the time he saw it between 8 and 9 a.m. Couldn't say exactly, only approximately. It could be probable that the body had lain where it was 10 or 12 hours.

"Could it not have been there 15 hours?"

"Possibly."

"Did you not tell Mr. L. D. Sampson shortly after the murder, in your office, that the head was cut off about five hours after death?"

"I did not. I had a conversation with Mr. Sampson about that time, but do not remember everything said at the time. But I could not have made such a statement because I constantly said otherwise."

This concluded the coroner's testimony and the court adjourned.

NOTHING FROM BULUWAYO.

The Place May Have Been Wiped Out of Existence by the Mutabebes.

LONDON, April 22.—No direct communication has been had with Buluwayo for the past 24 hours and great alarm is felt here lest the entire town has been wiped out of existence by the Mutabebes. The Daily Telegraph publishes a dispatch from Pretoria, which quotes a telegram sent from Buluwayo on Monday saying that at noon a great battle at close quarters was imminent and that the enemy was visible at a distance of four miles entrenched behind stone mounds.

The dispatch from Pretoria continues:

"The Johannesburg volunteers have telegraphed to Earl Grey, offering him a corps of 300 fully equipped men. President Kruger denies the report that any demand for an indemnity has been made upon the Chartered South African company by the Transvaal. A dispatch from Mochudi Bechuanaland dated Monday which The Times published this morning says that Earl Grey arrived there from Mafeking and continued on his journey to Buluwayo.

"Dr. Sauer, who is returning from Buluwayo for his trial at Pretoria," the dispatch goes on to say, "says that the longer at Buluwayo is certainly safe from external attacks, and that the food supply is sufficient for two months. He adds that the military operations will be purely defensive until the arrival of the relief column, and will be confined to keeping clear a zone three miles wide around the town.

"The first detachment of the relief column is already 150 miles north of Mafeking and their progress is satisfactory."

"The natives are beginning to realize the necessity of killing infected cattle to stamp out the rinderpest."

"In order to save the Bechuanaland protectorate and Rhodesia from danger of serious famine, it is imperative that the building of the new railway should be hastened."

The Berlin correspondent of The Standard declares that he has authority to state that the rumors of an agreement between President Kruger of the Transvaal and President Steyn of the Orange Free State, pointing to a coalition of the Boers throughout South Africa against England, is a canard.

CANADIAN FLOODS.

Thirty-Two Houses Swept Away by the St. Maurice and St. Lawrence Rivers.

THREE RIVERS, Que., April 22.—The flood here is doing an immense amount of damage. The water is now higher than the great flood of 1862 and 32 buildings in all have been swept away by the rushing waters of the St. Maurice and St. Lawrence.

All the wharves in the river front with the Richelieu and Ontario Navigation company's sheds and offices and the Canadian Pacific railway freight sheds are submerged. Hundreds of families are sheltered in public buildings.

Over a thousand logs owned by the St. Maurice Lumber company were carried away by the flood yesterday, together with Marscotte's bridge, 600 feet long.

Clothing Cutters' Strike Declared OFF.

CHICAGO, April 22.—The strike of the clothing cutters which has been in progress for the last three months, has been declared off. The employers won an unconditional victory. The garment workers union is expected to give in.

About 15,000 men were out, clothing cutters and garment workers combined.

THE CIRCUS PARADE

It Was Very Important to Our Would-Be Lawmakers.

ALL LEGISLATION WAS DELAYED.

RECESS TAKEN IN THE HOUSE TO ALLOW THE MEMBERS TO SEE THE OUTSIDE SHOW—AFTER A FEW HILLS ARE PASSED, ONE OF THEM A SCHOOL HOUSE MEASURE—PROCEEDINGS OF BOTH HOUSES.

COLUMBUS, O., April 22.—A very dignified and statesmanlike action was taken by the house in recessing long enough to permit the members to go out and witness the parade of Sells Brothers' circus.

Mr. Goodale introduced a bill (and secured its passage) authorizing the commissioners of Hamilton county to replace the bridge across the Little Miami river at Newtown, recently burned. The cost is limited to $12,000.

The following bills were then passed:

Senate bill, adopting the Torreus system of land transfers.

Senate bill, re-enacting the law providing that boards of education shall not pay over 75 per cent of the whole sale list price for schoolbooks.

Senate bill, requiring that all actions for the pollution of streams shall be brought in the county where the pollution occurs.

Senate bill, providing that sheriffs shall not receive less than 45 nor more than 75 cents per day for boarding prisoners.

The senate passed the Garfield bill creating a state library commission. It may be safely said, however, that the bill will never become a law.

Mr. Beatty's house bill empowering the councils of municipalities to contract for electric lighting for a period of not more than 10 years was passed.

Mr. Clark's senate joint resolution ratifying the deed made by Governor Bishop to Cleveland of abandoned canal land now occupied by the Valley railroad, was adopted, as was Mr. Broder's house joint resolution for the printing of 6,000 more railroad maps.

Bills were passed as follows:

House bill, providing that municipal authorities may contract with electric light companies for a period not exceeding 10 years, and authorizing the courts to correct certain contracts.

House bill, authorizing municipal authorities under certain conditions to grant street railroads franchises for 50 years.

Mr. Pleumer's bill amending the pure food laws so as to make two classifications of drugs, was defeated.

On motion of Mr. Shryock all his bills reorganizing the government of Zanesville were indefinitely postponed.

INDEPENDENCE OR DEATH.

AN ADDRESS TO THE PEOPLE OF THE UNITED STATES FROM CUBAN REVOLUTIONISTS.

NEW YORK, April 22.—T. Estrada Palma, president of the Cuban revolutionary junta, last night gave out the following address to the people of the United States:

"To the People of the United States:

"The persistency with which the American press has during the last few days been treating of supposed administrative reforms to be introduced in Cuba by the government of Spain, compels me to request the publication of the following declarations, which I make in behalf of my government, of the army of liberation of Cuba, and of the Cuban revolutionary party.

"The question of the supposed reforms is not a matter which at all concerns those who have already established an independent government in Cuba and have resolved to shrink from no sacrifice of property or life, in order to emancipate the whole island from the Spanish yoke. If the Spaniards residing in the island, who are favored by the Spanish government with all sorts of privileges and monopolies, and if the handful of Cubans too pusillanimous or too proud to acknowledge their error, or a few foreigners guided only by selfish interests are satisfied that Cuba should remain under Spanish abomination, we who militate under the flag of the solitary star, we, who already constitute the republic of Cuba and belong to a free people with its own government and its own laws are firmly resolved to listen to no compromise and to treat with Spain only on the basis of absolute independence for Cuba.

"In order to save the Bechuanaland protectorate and Rhodesia from danger of serious famine, it is imperative that the building of the new railway should be hastened."

The Berlin correspondent of The Standard declares that he has authority to state that the rumors of an agreement between President Kruger of the Transvaal and President Steyn of the Orange Free State, pointing to a coalition of the Boers throughout South Africa against England, is a canard.

"We have thrown ourselves into the struggle advisedly and deliberately; we knew what we would have to face and we decided unflinchingly to persevere until we should emancipate ourselves from the Spanish government. And we know that we are able to do it, as we

MINISTRY NOT CHANGED.

MADRID, April 22.—The rumors of the granting of reforms for Cuba by the Spanish government are much discussed by all sections of the political world here. The supporters of the government declare that the ministry has not changed its line of conduct, but that it will submit its proposals to the chambers.

DEATH OF A PHILANTHROPIST.

BARON HIRSCH PASSES AWAY AT HIS HOME IN PRESBURG, HUNGARY.

VIENNA, April 22.—Baron Maurice de Hirsch, the great financier and philanthropist, died Monday night on his estate at Presburg, Hungary, from a stroke of apoplexy. He colonized them in Argentina, and subscribed millions for their relief in Russia. His philanthropies were not limited to people of his own race. His purse was open to relieve the distress of any nationality.

TUESDAY evening about 7:30 o'clock, Mr. J. F. Parker, the photographer, and his wife and son were out driving. They were coming east on West Third and when near the bend on the Lexington pike the horse became frightened at some object and ran in on the pavement and fell. At the same time a gentleman from the country was going west horseback, and in trying to get out of the way was forced on the pavement also. One of hind legs of his horse caught in the wheel of Mr. Parker's buggy, preventing it from upsetting and possibly saving the lives of Mr. Parker and family. As the latter's horse gained its feet it dashed down the hill, leaving harness and all behind. The animal was stopped at Coughlin Bro's stable. The countryman's horse had one leg badly injured, and Mr. Parker's buggy and harness was somewhat damaged.

IN MEMORIAM.

WITNESSETH, It hath pleased Almighty God in His infinite wisdom to remove from our midst our beloved brother and pastor, Winter S. Smith.

It is resolved that the Christian Church, Orangeburg, and the Y. P. S. C. E. has sustained an irreparable loss, and that the intelligence of his death was received with sincere regret and sorrowful spirits.

Resolved, That we tender our heartfelt sympathy to his near relatives and many friends who may be near us in loss of our brother.

Resolved, That in the death of brother Smith the brotherhood in Kentucky has lost a bright and promising young minister.

Resolved, That while we deeply feel the loss, we most humbly submit to the will of the living Judge who ereth not, and comfort our hearts with the thought that some day we shall meet where partings are no more.

Resolved, That these resolutions be copied upon the minutes of our society, published in the Christian Standard and the Maysville Standard, and a copy of each be sent to the relatives of the deceased.

Marvelous Results.

From a letter written by Rev. J. Gunderman, of Dintondale, Mich., we are permitted to make this extract: "I have no hesitation in recommending Dr. King's New Discovery, as the results were almost marvelous in the case of my wife. While I was pastor of the Baptist Church at Rives Junction she was brought down with Pneumonia succeeding La Grippe. Terrible paroxysms of coughing would last hours with little interruption and it seemed as if she could not survive them. A friend recommended Dr. King's New Discovery; it was quick in its work and highly satisfactory in results." Trial bottles free at J. James Wood's drug store. Regular size 50c and $1.

Orangeburg.

A memorial service was held by the Y. P. S. C. of the Christian Church at this place on Sunday eve last, to the memory of Rev. W. S. Smith, the late pastor, who died at Dover a few days since. Rev. Smithers was a man greatly beloved by his people, and the tidings of his sudden death cast a gloom over his congregation here. The service, though brief, was very impressive, rendered all the more so by the deep and heartfelt sorrow which seemed to pervade every prayer and song. A short address was made by Miss Ida Mayhugh, which is given below:

TO THE MEMORY OF REV. W. T. SMITH.
It is with sad hearts that we come together this evening to hold a short service to the memory of our beloved pastor, who has so suddenly been called from our midst, never to return. Just one short month ago he was with us; we felt the kind pressure of his hand; we heard his voice in the greeting and salutation words of prayer and praise to his Maker. Today he lies silent and cold in a distant grave, and again we stand face to face with the great mystery we call "death." We, as Christian people, are left to mourn a loss which words cannot fail to express. No more earnest, God fearing man, or faithful, zealous worker has ever sought and found a place in the Kingdom of Christ here on earth than our beloved Smith. A man who sought to heal the hurts and unite the divisions among his people, and who longed in his soul to see them at peace one with another. A man, plain and unassuming in manner, but always the courteous, Christian gentleman, making no distinction between rich and poor, high and low, and bestowing the same kind courtesy upon the poor blind woman who might outdo him as upon the distinguished young orator who came among us a few weeks later. A man young in years, but whose life was filled with good deeds, and whose vigorous frame and strong intellect gave promise of a future filled with usefulness and honor. His death has left a vacancy that we fear cannot be filled, but we must say "Thy will be done," for God has called him home, and while we are left to mourn his loss we are yet bound to rejoice in the assurance that he will not only return to meet his Maker, but will come into his presence "empty handed." For the promise reads that "he who saves one soul from death must hide a multitude of sins" and we know that through his earnest teaching of God's holy word our brother has won many souls to Christ. It is in such an hour as this that man most needs the faith that will enable him to believe and hold fast to the precious promises spoken ages since by the sacred lips of the Savior of a world, for though

It is in such an hour as this that man most needs the faith that will enable him to believe and hold fast to the precious promises spoken ages since by the sacred lips of the Savior of a world, for though

It is with sad hearts that we come together this evening to hold a short service to the memory of our beloved pastor, who has so suddenly been called from our midst, never to return. Just one short month ago he was with us; we felt the kind pressure of his hand; we heard his voice in the greeting and salutation words of prayer and praise to his Maker. Today he lies silent and cold in a distant grave, and again we stand face to face with the great mystery we call "death." We, as Christian people, are left to mourn a loss which words cannot fail to express. No more earnest, God fearing man, or faithful, zealous worker has ever sought and found a place in the Kingdom of Christ here on earth than our beloved Smith. A man who sought to heal the hurts and unite the divisions among his people, and who longed in his soul to see them at peace one with another. A man, plain and unassuming in manner, but always the courteous, Christian gentleman, making no distinction between rich and poor, high and low, and bestowing the same kind courtesy upon the poor blind woman who might outdo him as upon the distinguished young orator who came among us a few weeks later. A man young in years, but whose life was filled with good deeds, and whose vigorous frame and strong intellect gave promise of a future filled with usefulness and honor. His death has left a vacancy that we fear cannot be filled, but we must say "Thy will be done," for God has called him home, and while we are left to mourn his loss we are yet bound to rejoice in the assurance that he will not only return to meet his Maker, but will come into his presence "empty handed." For the promise reads that "he who saves one soul from death must hide a multitude of sins" and we know that through his earnest teaching of God's holy word our brother has won many souls to Christ. It is in such an hour as this that man most needs the faith that will enable him to believe and hold fast to the precious promises spoken ages since by the sacred lips of the Savior of a world, for though

HANGED HIMSELF.

Rev. James A. Caywood Found Dead at the County Infirmary Early This Morning.

Rev. James A. Caywood committed suicide some time last night at the county infirmary by hanging himself with a strap. He was taken to the infirmary only yesterday. This morning about 4 o'clock, Superintendent Slattery found him dead, hanging on the porch of one of the buildings.

Deceased was formerly a member of the Kentucky Conference M. E. Church, South, and in later years was one of the conference's colporteurs.

About two weeks ago he was tried in the County Court on a writ of lunacy but talked so rationally that the jury adjudged him of sound mind.

He had been seized with the hallucination, however, that in order to save his soul, he must hang himself.

Tuesday his relatives went before Judge Hutchins and secured an order committing him to the infirmary. Last evening he spent some time reading the Bible to several of the inmates, and talked as rationally as any one.

Later he tried to borrow a knife but this was refused him. Superintendent Slattery kept a watch on him part of the night, but about 3 o'clock this morning he got out of his room and was found dead an hour or so later.

A check rein had been used by the unfortunate man in taking his life. He had evidently had this concealed about his person, as Mr. Slattery missed nothing of the kind.

Caywood was about sixty years of age. He married a Miss Leachman, of Sardis, some years ago, but they were afterwards divorced, and he then married some woman in Central Kentucky, by whom he has four children.

His relatives, who live between Mayslick and Sardis, were notified of his death this morning. No arrangements have been made for the funeral.

Coroner Roe held an inquest, the verdict of the jury being that deceased came to his death by his own hand.

THE man with a weight on his leg can't hope to win in the race. A man with a weight on his health can't expect to compete in life and business with those who are not handicapped. If his brain is heavy, and his blood sluggish, because of constipation, he will not succeed in doing anything very well. Constipation is the cause of nine-tenths of all sickness. Symptoms of it are sallowness, listlessness, poor appetite, bad taste in the mouth, dizziness, listlessness and lassitude. Constipation can be cured easily and certainly by the use of Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets. They are not at all violent in their action, and yet they are more certain than many medicines which are so strong that they put the system all out of order. The great advantage of the "Pleasant Pellets" is that they cure permanently.

SUNSTROKE CAUSED HER DEATH.

While With a Happy Party of Pleasure Seekers Miss Nettie Stone Was Suddenly Stricken.

Brief mention was made yesterday of the sudden summons that came to Miss Nettie Stone, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. Clay Stone of Mt. Gilead. The Lexington Leader says: "Sad, indeed, was the death of Miss Nettie Stone, who accompanied Mr. Miller's excursion to Pilot Knob Saturday. She was a niece of Mrs. George Lancaster and lived at Mt. Gilead, Mason County, and was on a visit to her aunt and cousins. She seemed in perfect health and excellent spirits when the party left, and no one dreamed of the dark shadow which lurked by her side, or the gay laughter would have been blushed as it was upon the return trip. Miss Elmer Allen and Miss Julia Reese, two of the party, remained with the stricken girl and were with her when the grim destroyer set his seal upon her brow at midnight, Saturday. Arriving here Monday morning at 7 o'clock, the loved remains were taken to her darkened home."

There were about forty in the party, and while they were climbing Pilot Knob at 3 o'clock in the afternoon Miss Stone complained of feeling ill and suddenly sank unconscious. She had been overcome by the heat. In an unconscious condition, she lingered until midnight Saturday night when the final summons came and death claimed her.

The remains were laid to rest Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock at Mt. Gilead. Funeral services were held Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock.

Deceased was twenty years of age, and was an accomplished and estimable young lady. Her many friends learn with sorrow of her sad death.

Badly Injured.

MR. WILL FRISTOE, a son of Mr. W. H. Fristoe, was driving his father's cart down Union street Tuesday morning about 10 o'clock when the horse took fright, and lunged forward, throwing the young man violently to the ground, the cart wheel passing over his breast. His father fortunately was near and picked him up, but he lay unconscious for some time and bled from the mouth. Dr. Samuels was summoned but could not tell just how badly he was hurt. He is getting along as well as could be expected. His injuries are internal and are very painful. After the accident the horse ran down Second street to Daulton's, striking a tree, breaking the shafts of the cart into splinters.

Thousands have tested the great building-up power of Hood's Sarsaparilla and have found renewed strength, vigor and vitality in its use.
